Deputy VFD rises from ashes with new firehouse

BY BOB DEMAREE

More than three years after Deputy Volunteer Fire Department lost its firehouse to a fire, the firefighters were back home in their new building on Saturday.

"We had our final punch list walk-wthrough Thursday night," said Deputy Fire Chief Mike Hazelwood. "There's still some touch-up paint and stuff, and a few things they have to complete, but for the most part it's a done deal."

So, on Saturday the firefighters were busy moving everything — most of which has been gathered through donations or purchases over the last three years since just about everything was lost in the blaze — and getting it arranged in the new building.

The fire, discovered when a passerby saw flames shotting through the roof, occurred Monday, Dec. 17, 2018. Hazelwood noted that by that time it was too late to save the structure especially since the equipment was being consumed in the blaze.

The fire was devastating, said Hazelwood, but in spite of the loss Deputy Volunteer Fire Department continued to provide fire protection for local residents even though its firehouse was gone.

"We kept serving the community like we needed to do. We were committed to doing what we needed to do," he said noting "it takes a lot of commitment to do what we do" and especially when you have to overcome such a loss. Hazelwood said the dedication of volunteers and other supporters comes from a love of the community and a love of being a firefighter and knowing the importance of fire protection.

The process of getting a new firehouse took much longer than planned, beginning with applying to the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs for a Community Development Block Grant in which the Deputy Volunteer Fire Department was awarded $500,000 in August of 2019. Once that funding was

GOP caucus elects Eaglin to township board

Party candidate forum tonight

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Republican Caucus met Saturday and elected Myron Eaglin to complete the unexpired term of Joshua Schafer on Madison Township Board.

Eaglin, the only person to file for the seat, has served as a Republican precinct committeeman. He works at Kentucky Utilities Company with an associates degree in electrical engineering from Purdue University. He and his wife, Kim, have a son Zach, a senior at the University of Evansville.

Jefferson County Republican chair Pam Crozier expressed appreciation that Eaglin was "willing to step forward and serve," noting he's active in the community, intelligent and a good addition to the board.

Schafer had been elected to the board in 2018, but resigned after being elected by caucus last month to Madison City Council in the Fourth District to complete the term of Katie Rampy after she was elected in an earlier caucus to complete the term of Rick Berry as Madison Clerk-Treasurer.

"It's great we have had people ready to take the next step," Crozier said.

The Jefferson County Republican Party will hold a candidate forum at the Red Bicycle Hall, 125 East Main Street, Madison, at 6 p.m. on Tuesday. Many of the nine Republican Congressional candidates will participate in the forum, along with Republican candidates for local county offices.

There are four contested Republican seats in Jefferson County for the May 3 primary — incumbent Ron Lee and challenger Gary Copeland for County Commissioner Upper District, incumbent Ray Black Jr. and challenger Bob Cooke for County Council District 3, incumbent Dave Thomas and challengers Ben Flint and Mike Sims for County Sheriff, and incumbent Kevin Fry and challenger Julie Wattenbarger for Madison Township Trustee.

Main Street revitalization has funds for two phases

Plan includes Mill Street to Hanover Hill

BY BOB DEMAREE

With funding now in place for the first two phases of Madison's Main Street highway and sidewalk revitalization, the city is now looking toward phase three, which would complete the project Deputy Mayor Mindy McGee told the Board of Works and Safety at Monday's meeting.

"We feel real good about phase three of the project if funding becomes available for that as well if we can afford our match," said McGee.

The most recent award total to the City of Madison was $8,857,451.80 in Federal Highway Administration funds that will encompass phase two of the project from the incline bridge to Mill Street. Phase one that goes from the top of Hanover Hill to the incline bridge is being paid for by an earlier $3,872,000 federal grant. The city must match both grants by 20%.

"Congratulations for being two for two on federal highway funding applications," Madison Mayor Bob Courtney told McGee. "That's a fantastic outcome particularly for when we form a steering committee and

Mad Paddle cancels drag show, apologizes for male revue

Mayor: No city ordinance prohibiting drag shows

BY BOB DEMAREE

Citing possible violations of city ordinances, Mad Paddle Brewstillery owner Jerry Wade recently canceled a second drag show that had been scheduled for March 31 at the 301 West Street entertainment complex.

However, Madison Mayor Bob Courtney confirmed Friday that the city does not currently have ordinances prohibiting drag shows, which have previously been held at Mad Paddle and other local entertainment venues.

Responding to a number of comments on social media both supporting and opposing drag shows, Mad Paddle posted on its social media page Thursday that, "Officials from the City of Madison have indicated that drag shows 'may violate' city ordinances. Until such time that the city clarifies that topic, any business that chooses to host a drag show entertainment event may be committing a violation. We have a business that was already successful and wants to continue to be successful."

"We must adhere to all city ordinances, the post continued, "That's the scoop. The accusations towards us of being bigots, or small minded needs to stop, when the exact opposite is the case."

On Friday Courtney responded to Mad Paddle's remarks by noting the explanation the business cited is not the case.

we start looking at these multiple corridors, and what we think it needs for the community for the next couple of decades or so, and we have two of the three phases already funded."

Courtney is hopeful that with another match for the third phase the city can seamlessly complete the rest of the project to Jefferson Street.

McGee said phase two is a "complete rehabilitation from door to door across Main Street zones," noting the street is curbs, gutters, ADA ramps, sidewalks, tree yards, lamp posts, traffic signal lights, upgraded crosswalk lights and more.

Board member David Carlow expressed concern about also resolving drainage issues, particularly at the Main Street intersections at Cragmont and Vernon streets near his home. "When we have bad rains, I stand out on my front porch," said Carlow, who lives near the Vernon Street intersection, "and I watch cars go down Main Street. I watch them hydroplane when they hit the water."

Courtney is hopeful that with another match for the third phase the city can seamlessly complete the rest of the project to Jefferson Street.

Carlow said the issue at Vernon has existed for several years.

"It's a bad situation. I keep anticipating somebody's going to lose control" of their vehicle, resulting in possibly a bad accident, he noted.

McGee said the plan is to work with Madison Utilities "to be sure we're taking care of the sub-surface infrastructure." She said there is a portion of the grant that "will cover some" of the drainage issues ... It is our intention that while we have it torn up to take a look at fixing as much as possible. We really don't want them to have to come back and cut into Main Street."

McGee noted the intersection at Cragmont Street will involve working with the Indiana Department of Transportation "because that's technically their intersection," but the city will seek to collaborate on resolving drainage issues there, too.

Meanwhile, McGee reported that efforts are moving forward on the city's Oak Hill subdivision paving project, funded by a Community Crossing grant, that includes improvement to the streets and sidewalks there, along with upgrades to the park. She said the project's start date is anticipated at mid- to late-April and the city is in the process of reaching out to Oak Hill residents for input because "we definitely want to get feedback and input from the residents about what they would like to see in the park."

In Loving Memory of

James "Jim" Edwin Corya

James "Jim" Edwin Corya, was received by our Heavenly Father and realized his salvation on March 17, 2022. Born in his family home near Dupont, Indiana on August 3rd, 1943. Jim was the youngest son of the late Joseph and Lida (Scott) Corya. Jim graduated from Paris Crossing High School and earned his Bachelors Degree in Accounting from Georgetown College. He served our country in the U.S. Army Reserves. Jim enjoyed a very successful professional career starting with Central Soya and North American Van Lines. He made lifelong friends at both companies and spent cherished time with them regularly. Jim found his true calling helping others. He spent the remainder of his career as the owner of National Corporate Consultants in the human resources industry. Jim loved to learn about people. He was legitimately interested in what made people tick, who was a mentor in their lives and where they've been and are going. Anyone who met him likely received a piece of professional advice or encouragement. He never met a stranger. Jim was an avid golfer and especially loved hitting the links with Brother Knight and Shep. His claim to fame was TWO Hole-In-Ones and he liked to note that one was domestic and one was international. Jim cherished his time with his family and friends. He loved time on the water whether it was up at the lake or the beaches of Mexico. He was an original and faithful member of Faith Baptist Church. He was a devoted husband to the love of his life, Laura (Florine). Jim was an incredible man and he left a hole that cannot be filled. Jim will be missed by his children, Kelly Corya, Kim Corya, Matt (Nina) Corya; grandchildren, Grace, Caroline, Molly, Maddox; sister, Patricia Dawson, Kathryn (Eric) Johnson; and sister-in-law, Janet Corya as well as many other cherished family members and dear friends. Jim was welcomed in Heaven by his loving wife, his parents, and his brother Lewis "Buzz" Corya.

A Celebration of Life will be held at 11 am, Saturday, March 26, 2022 at Faith Baptist Church, 6600 Trier Rd, with calling one hour prior. Visitation is Friday, March 25, 2022 from 4 pm to 8 pm at FairHaven Funeral Home and Cremation Services, 6557 N. Clinton Street. Memorials may be made in Jim's name to Faith Baptist Church or Cancer Services of NE Indiana.

Can I keep my guy friends?

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have been dating my boyfriend for almost eight years. We were high school sweethearts, and we are each other's first everything, so we've only been with each other.

I've had a guy friend for about six years because we worked together. We've since stayed friends once we both left our jobs. I do hang out with him, but I always let my boyfriend know. My boyfriend was fine with it until an incident happened two summers ago.

I was at an old friend's party in college, and my boyfriend couldn't go because he was working. At the party, there were guys who would flirt with me, but I let them know that I had a boyfriend. One of the guys leaned his head on my shoulder, so I gave him my water to help him feel better. However, he posted the video of the two of us on his Snapchat story, and his ex, who was my friend at the time, saw it at 3 a.m.

I did not know he posted it until I was told the next day. When she saw it, she got very jealous and told my boyfriend that I was sitting on his lap. She was not at the party, but just saw it on her Snapchat story. My boyfriend was devastated and texted me, saying, "We need to talk." I was very confused and not sure what was wrong.

Eventually, I pointed out to him that I can hang out with whoever I want and he should trust me.

Fast-forward to this past summer. I met another guy who I became friends with. I became sexually attracted to him but never acted on it. Over the course of the summer, I became close friends with him, and the feelings went away because of our friendship. This was the only guy, other than my boyfriend, who I had a sexual attraction to. Meanwhile, my boyfriend has had sexual attractions to many other girls. I was fine with that because it's normal and he never acted upon them.

I told my boyfriend about my sexual attraction to this other guy, but I was still confused because I didn't know it was a sexual attraction at the time. Plus, we share personal stuff like this with each other all the time; we are best friends.

However, the situation keeps being brought up between us about my guy friends, and I'm not sure what to do. We recently just had a conversation about it to work it out again. He knows he needs to work on his insecurities about my having guy friends, but it's exhausting having these conversations over and over again because I feel like he does not trust me. I want to be with him for the rest of my life. I have no interest in any other guy.

Is it OK to be friends with guys and hang out with them like I can with my girlfriends? How can I get my boyfriend to be comfortable and trust me again? What can I do to make this situation better? — Just Friends

Dear Just Friends: Yes, it is OK to be friends with someone of the opposite gender so long as the rule applies both ways and you don't get jealous if he has girls as friends.

Everyone has sexual fantasies that they don't need to tell the world about. It sounds like the two of you are very close and when you see the world from the other's point of view, there is much love and support. Keep building on that.

Birthday gifts have an age limit

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: This letter is in reference to the aunt and uncle who provided generous gifts to their six nephews, only to be forgotten when it came time for those same nephews to thank them.

I would suggest that they do what I have done with my 20 grandchildren: I'll give them birthday cards and gifts until age 18. At that time, I let them know that their 18th gift is their last birthday gift, but that I will always love them and give them a birthday card thereafter; then, for Christmas, they receive a card and gift until their 21st birthday, which is then their last gift.

Again, I let them know that I love them and will continue to send a card after their 21st Christmas.

This way, once they are adults, I am free from what could begin to feel like an obligation. The joy they feel as children when receiving a gift is my joy as well, but once they are adults, it is now their turn to be generous to others. — Generous but Practical Grandma

Dear Generous but Practical: I love your observation that it is a joy to give. That is so true. Oftentimes, it feels better to give than to receive, and your letter touched upon this important feeling. Thanks for letting us know how you handle the issue of giving gifts early and cards as the kids get older.

Dear Annie: To the parents whose daughter got married before the planned wedding and then sent out printed postcard announcements.

My daughter and her (now) husband also got married in August before their November wedding for insurance coverage.

I thought it was practical and well thought-through. Would I have liked to be there? Sure.

But the wedding reception was a blast! Little did my daughter know that her grandparents did the same thing in 1941 during World War II! I'm guessing that "Feeling Left Out's" daughter didn't call to let them know because she didn't want to hear anything negative. Be happy the newlyweds are happy. Enjoy the reception and dance! — Happy with What I Got

Dear Happy: I love your letter. You looked at the bright side of the situation and focused on all of the blessings that resulted out of their marriage.

Dear Annie: The parents who felt slighted by how they were informed that their daughter had eloped were not upset that she had eloped; they simply felt a postcard from their own daughter was impersonal to say the least. The parents seemed perfectly understanding that she eloped and indicated it several times. I have to say that our daughter eloped with her husband for military reasons, and if they would have sent us a postcard (regardless if sent first, considering there is still no certainty we'd receive it before others in the postal service), we would have given them an earful. With today's technology and speed of communication, there should never be an excuse given to parents or children, for that matter, in not making a simple, courteous call to inform them of a wonderful event in your life. — Call Us First, Please secured, construction on the new firehouse was to begin in June of 2020 and due to be completed by December of 2020. However, Hazelwood said the contractor didn't actually begin work until November of 2020. By then, the nation was in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, causing supply shortages and delays in obtaining necessary supplies for construction of the building.

"There were always delays," said Hazelwood, of the frustrating setbacks. He said it's a relief "to finally be moving stuff in" and to have a firehouse again.

Hazelwood said the new modern firehouse has a monitored fire alarm system — something that didn't exist in the previous firehouse — to hopefully help prevent such a loss from again happening.

"It will call dispatch if any of our alarms go off in here," he said, adding the plan includes eventually adding sprinklers to the building to provide even better protection to provide the best possible fire protection for the new building. "We don't want to go through that again."

At the same time he said there's "nothing extravagant about the building. We built it to serve our needs," with a meeting room, fire chief's office, an office that will include radio communication, and an upper storage area. "It's nothing real big, just to get by with what we needed."

However, the new firehouse also includes space for fire department functions, something that did not exist at the previous firehouse. "If we wanted to do a fish fry, we had to move all of the trucks out to set up tables and chairs," which limited the fire department to only holding events in warm months. "In the winter time, you can't pull the trucks out to freeze up. So, we thought, we want to have a separate room that we can set our tables and chairs up, and leave them. We won't have to pull trucks out, and we can have fish fries whenever we want, any time of the year."

Since the $500,000 grant covered only a portion of the cost to rebuild, they have been pondering the possibility of having Bingo at the firehouse, _ similar to Madison Township Fire Department —as a fundraiser. He noted the fire department currently does not receive enough funding from the township to cover its insurance costs, adding that insurance for the new building has nearly doubled.

There's also a possibility that the fire department can rent the space out to community groups with access to the kitchen and two restrooms available. The space has already been scheduled to serve as a polling space for the May 3 primary election.

Although the move-in signal the functional opening of the new firehouse, a ceremonial dedication and ribbon cutting will be planned for sometime in the future to invite the public in to see the facility and recognize how the department has risen from the ashes.

PADDLE

"The city values its diversity and is an inclusionary community," Courtney said, responding to an inquiry by The Madison Courier. "For the record, the city does not have any ordinance precluding drag shows. The comments by Mr. Wade unfortunately mischaracterized the matter with his social media post and is deflecting responsibility for canceling the event."

Mad Paddle, which holds an alcohol license to brew beer and distill hard liquor with sales on the premises, held a drag show on Jan. 13 but is now canceling a repeat engagement scheduled for March 31. The venue has offered a variety of live entertainment — mostly live music — as well as a male review for women that left Wade apologizing for what he called an "error in judgment."

Speaking in a video posting on Facebook, Wade apologized for a "Girls Night Out" event held at Mad Paddle on Feb. 20.

"I and the management team at Mad Paddle deeply regret the decision to hold the event, and we can only imagine the surprise and disappointment felt by many. We are very sorry for that disappointment that may have happened with you," Wade said.

Wade noted the "Girls Night Out" featured male dancers and turned out to not be what he had expected.

The event is "not a good fit for Mad Paddle and Madison, Indiana," Wade said, expressing regret for hosting the event. "We held the show, I was at the show, I was personally not happy with the show to put it mildly, and I knew right then and there that we had made a mistake. We met as a team the next day and we all agreed it was a mistake. There will never be this style of event at Mad Paddle again. I am very sorry for the error in judgment."

MADISON COURIER GIRLS BASKETBALL PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Do-everything Duvall key to Pacers' success

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Like all high school basketball players, Jessie Duvall would have loved to have ended her season with a sectional championship. But considering how the rest of her senior season went, it's hard to complain too loudly.

Duvall finished her stellar career as just the sixth player in Switzerland County history to score 1,000 points and set the school's career record for steals along the way. Add to that a second-straight 18-win season and a trip to the sectional finals, and it was a pretty good year all-around.

"I thought it was a successful season overall. I feel like we were all working towards the same goal," Duvall said. "Obviously, we didn't get what we wanted at the end, but I feel like we all are happy with how the season went with 18 wins and we competed in every game."

Duvall is this year's pick for Madison Courier Girls Basketball Player of the Year. She is the second Switzerland County player to earn the honor, joining her current coach Brooke Todd, who took home the award in 2016.

What made Duvall stand out against a very good field of candidates was her overall game. Along with leading the area in scoring at 13.7 points per game, she was also first in steals with 107 — an impressive 4.3 per game — and second in the area in assists at 3.6 per game.

It was that versatility that made Duvall the leader on a Switzerland County team that was one of the best in southern Indiana.

"I think that it shows a lot when you're coming in to your senior season and you're still willing to put in a lot of work and adapt your game, even though you're already a good player," Todd said. "She wanted to learn and wanted to get better. She's just a competitor. It's just in her being already and it's not like you have to convince her to compete every game. I think that if you have that mindset, you're just always working to out-work everybody and she does that."

Numbers don't fully tell the story of what Jessie, and her sister Maddie, meant to the Pacers this season. The twins were involved in every aspect of their team's success, from offense and defense, to moving the ball and spacing. If one of the sisters had an off-game, likely the team was off as well.

Like Jessie, Maddie had a spectacular season as well, averaging 12.6 points and 3.7 steals per game. Jessie said that having Maddie on the floor with her made every game easier.

"We always know what the other one's gonna do or anything. Like if we needed a steal, she'd be pressuring the ball and I'd take the pass," Jessie said. "We read each other really well and played off of each other really well."

Jessie finished her career with 1,006 points, sixth-most in school history, but she never considered herself a scorer. It wasn't until her junior year that she was even expected to score, after Pacers' career scoring leader Aleah Thomas graduated.

"I'm probably more of a defensive player and a passer. I really had to develop myself into a scorer these past two years," she said. "My first two years I was more of a facilitator. So I really had to develop myself offensively these past two years, but I would consider myself more of a defensive player."

Duvall's skills mirrored those of her coach, who was a pass-first point guard who was consistent enough to eventually break the school's career scoring record before heading off to a successful playing career at Hanover College.

"It was fun for me to get to have that relationship where you can understand where her mindset is in the game because you've done it before. And that was something that I was just really proud of her this year," Todd said. "You have to be selfless to get those individual accomplishments and towards the end of the season, when she

Madison, Switzerland dominate postseason awards

Madison and Switzerland County were the two best girls basketball teams in the area, so it's not surprising that the two programs dominate The Madison Courier's Postseason Awards.

The two schools combined for four of the five All-Courierarea First Team selections and five of the 10 spots overall, as well as two of the three individual awards.

Switzerland County senior Jessie Duvall is the headliner, earning Player of the Year honors. She is the second Lady Pacer to win the award since the Courier re-established it in 2011, joining her current head coach Brooke Todd in 2016. Duvall is joined on the First Team by twin sister Maddie Duvall, Madison's Cam Cahall and Taylor Lynch, and Trimble County's Addison Edmondson.

Allison Knoebel helped lead Shawe to its best season in five years and is the Freshman of the Year after averaging 11.2 points per game for the 9-11 Hilltoppers. She was also named to the Second Team.

Madison went 12-9 this year and lost a heart-breaker to eventual state runner-up Silver Creek in the sectional semifinals earning Sonja Bowyer the nod for Coach of the Year for the second time (2019). She is the sixth Madison coach to win the award joining Tony Harl (2011) and Willie Humes (2012, 2013 and 2014).

Jessie Duvall and twin sister, Maddie, were the catalysts on Switzerland's 18-win, sectional runner-up squad and both were named to the First Team for the second-straight

Walks, errors doom Carroll baseball in loss to South Oldham

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Carroll County out-hit South Oldham but found itself on the wrong end of a 9-5 baseball loss Saturday in Crestwood.

The Panthers pounded out nine hits in the game but issued seven walks and committed three errors to allow South Oldham to escape with the win.

A walk and an error led to three runs in the first and an error and two more walks led to three more runs in the second as South Oldham took an early 6-0 lead.

Carroll County began chipping away, getting an RBI triple from Luke Staley in the third and RBIs from Andrew Shaw, Landon Isaacs and Branon Battaglia to score three runs in the fifth inning to close the gap to 6-4. After the Dragons scored in the bottom of the fifth, Carroll added a run on an RBI single by David Smith to keep the margin at two.

But two hit batters and two wild pitches in the sixth allowed South Oldham to score two runs for the final margin.

Staley, Battaglia and Jaxon Hewitt each had two hits to lead Carroll while Logan Gilbert had a hit and scored a run. Lucas Shepherd gave up three earned runs on four hits in two innings and took the loss.

Carroll, now 1-1 on the season, traveled to Collins on Monday and hosts Conner today. The Panthers then head to Western Hills on Thursday.

Purdue finally solves Beard in March, beats Texas 81-71

BY STEVE MEGARGEE

MILWAUKEE — Purdue's Jaden Ivey had to hear from Courtney Ramey all night as Texas' tenacious, talkative guard followed the future lottery pick up and down the court.

With just over a minute left, Ivey delivered the last word.

Purdue was clinging to a 74-71 lead when Ivey made a move to get clear of Ramey before sinking a 3-pointer with 1:01 remaining. That started a 7-0 run to end the game as Purdue outlasted Texas 81-71 in a second-round NCAA Tournament game Sunday night.

"All game he was chirping, just trying to get me out of rhythm," Ivey said. "I just stayed poised the whole game. That's what it comes down to. People are going to try to get you out of rhythm and try to talk to you. You've just got to stay focused on the main goal, and I felt like I did that."

Ramey sure made him work for it, though.

Ivey didn't score in the first 16 minutes of the game and didn't have a single basket in the first half. The Associated Press All-America second-team selection kept working and finished with 18 points to make sure Purdue finally got past Texas coach Chris Beard in March.

Saint Peter's is 3rd 15 seed in Sweet 16, beats Murray State

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Undersized in every way, Saint Peter's became the latest NCAA Tournament darling that only the most ardent hoops fans had heard of before it stepped onto a court with a March Madness logo.

These proud Peacocks from Jersey City, New Jersey, became the third No. 15 seed to advance to the Sweet 16, first tossing eight-time national champion Kentucky out of the bracket and then taking care of Murray State in a workmanlike 70-60 win on Saturday night.

Even mid-major Murray State was taller and beefier than the Peacocks, but that didn't bother coach Shaheen Holloway or his 6-foot-7, 195-pound power forward, KC Ndefo, who had 17 points and 10 rebounds and played bruising defense at the rim.

"I'm going to say this. It's going to come off a little crazy. I got guys from New Jersey and New York City," Holloway said. "You think we're scared of anything? You think we're worried about guys trying to muscle us and tough us out?"

Yep, the Jesuit school with an enrollment of 3,000 has a big Jersey attitude.

"We have played bigger teams the whole time. So them being a little bigger and stronger, it doesn't faze us. When you got tough, hard-nosed kids, they're ready to play," Holloway said.

Meyers career-high 29 leads Princeton past Kentucky 69-62

BY STEVE BITTENBENDER

BLOOMINGTON — Abby Meyers made the most of her last trip to the NCAA Tournament, giving the Princeton women's team its second-ever win.

She set a career-high with 29 points to lead No. 11-seed Princeton to a 69-62 victory over sixth-seeded Kentucky on Saturday. The Wildcats beat the Tigers in the opening round of the 2019 tournament.

"We all grow up dreaming about playing on this stage in Division I basketball in the NCAA Tournament, and for us to finally be here… some of us the first time, it's a special moment," the Ivy League Player of the Year said.

This was Princeton's first trip to the NCAA since 2019 after the 2020 tournament was canceled by the coronavirus pandemic and the Ivy League opted not to play sports last year. Sophomore Kaitlyn Chen received an outlet pass and dribbled out the final seconds of the clock, she bounced in sync with the ball. Her teammates on the court huddled with the guard, and then the rest of the Tigers players joined in at the buzzer.

Holmes leads sharp-shooting Hoosiers past Charlotte

BY STEVE BITTENBENDER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMINGTON — Mackenzie Holmes scored 19 points to lead Indiana to an 85-51 victory over Charlotte on Saturday in the first round of the women's NCAA Tournament.

Serving as hosts for the first time in the women's tournament, the third-seeded Hoosiers (23-8) used a 22-2 run across a nearly six-minute first-half stretch to blow the game open. Aleksa Gulbe scored the final five in the spurt to make it 33-13 with 6:44 remaining in the half.

The lead never dipped below 20 in the second half as Holmes scored 15 of her points after halftime.

The 6-foot-3 junior forward and second-team All-Big Ten selection made 9-of-15 shots to help IU shoot 54.7%, the 10th time this season it shot better than 50%. She also grabbed eight rebounds.

Coach Teri Moren said she believes Holmes, who returned a month ago after missing eight games because of a knee injury, is starting to get more comfortable back on the court.

Holmes, who was the Hoosiers leading scorer before her one-month layoff, said her coaches and teammates have been pushing her in the leadup to the tournament.

"At the end of the day, I just want to do whatever it takes to win," she said. "I just I'm trying to get better every single day."

The Hoosiers enjoyed a balanced attack, with nine players scoring — including four in double figures.

Grace Berger added 18. The All-Big Ten senior guard who plans to return for a fifth season made 7-of-13 shots and added six rebounds and assists. She also became the program's 13th player to eclipse 1,500 career points.

Gulbe finished with 15 points and Nicole Cardano-Hillary had 11 points and five assists.

Moren said the Hoosiers were able to take advantage of the 49ers' offensive style that calls for everyone to crash the boards.

Indiana converted 21 of 30 layups and got 18 points in transition opportunities.

"It really gives you opportunities if you're willing to get out and run to get some early scores," she said.

Charlotte coach Cara Consuegra said that despite the lopsided loss, it takes nothing away from what she said was the best season in program history.

The 49ers made their first appearance in the NCAA Tournament in 13 years. They also claimed their first Conference USA tournament title and first regular-season conference crown in 16 years.

Octavia Jett-Wilson, the C-USA player of the year, led the 49ers with 19 points. The 5-8 fifth-year player made 7-of-14 shots, but the 49ers shot just 37% overall.

"We knew to come in and compete in this environment, we would have to play our very best. and we didn't play our very best today," Consuegra said. "A lot of that again is credit to (Indiana), but we're just not good enough of an offensive team to have the defensive performance we had today."

Indiana advances to the second round and will host 11-seed Princeton on Monday.

BIG PICTURE

Charlotte: The 49ers came into March Madness having won nine of their last 10 games, thanks mainly to their defense, which had held teams to 35.3% shooting, 15th-best in the country. However, they did not have any answers for an Indiana squad that was only the third to shoot better than 50% against them.

Indiana: The Hoosiers started out making just three of their first 10 shots, but they kept their composure and eventually found their stroke. Not only did they shoot well, but the Hoosiers also took great care of the ball, the six turnovers were a season low.

Van Lith gets 21, Louisville in Sweet 16 after beating Zags

BY STEVE BITTENBENDER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — Hailey Van Lith claims she's not much of a dancer, but her moves Sunday kept Louisville around for at least another weekend.

The sophomore guard scored 21 points for Louisville in its 68-59 win over Gonzaga on Sunday. However, it was the emotional lift she provided to the top-seeded Cardinals that also helped them avoid the upset bug in the second round of the women's NCAA Tournament.

"Haley loves the moment," Louisville coach Jeff Walz said. "She loves to be in that moment."

The moment for the Washington State native came in the third quarter, where she scored 10 in a decisive 15-3 run that broke open the game midway through the period. After burying one of her three 3-pointers from the wing, she turned to the fans and threw three fingers over her head.

"I know I'm not much of a dancer, so I'm not sure I did a pirouette," the 5-7 All-ACC player said. "But you know, I'm very passionate about basketball, and I really love to play. And this is the tournament that you live for, you know? I care about my teammates a lot, and so I want to win."

Playing in front of a loud home crowd of 10,414 for the last time this season, the top-seeded Cardinals (27-4) jumped out to a 14-0 lead less than 4:30 into the game, thanks to a pressure defense that sped up the Bulldogs. The Zags (27-7) not only weathered the storm but also answered with a 12-0 run of their own.

Eventually, Gonzaga even took the lead three times in the second quarter. Louisville coach Jeff Walz said he knew that the Bulldogs would battle back, but his players trying to land knockout blows also helped.

However, the same pressure defense that knocked the Zags on their heels early eventually led to their season ending as well.

"We did lose a little gas" in the second half, said junior guard Kaylynne Truong.

After being held to just six points in the first half, Van Lith would not be denied in the second. She scored eight straight points in 1:45 stretch of the third quarter that started the run. She would cap that spurt with two more free throws to make it 51-33 with 3:00 left in the period.

Gonzaga (27-7) never got back within eight points the rest of the way.

Zags coach Lisa Fortier recalled seeing Van Lith at high school camps and recalled seeing glimpses of the energy and intensity she showed on the floor Sunday night.

"She played a really tough game," the eighth-year coach said. "She's so intense, and (for) some people, intensity takes them out of it… I haven't watched her career closely enough to know this, but I think based on today, the intensity rose, and she rose to that occasion."

Van Lith, who made 8 of 17 shots, was one of four Louisville players in double figures. Emily Engstler overcame a 3-for-13 shooting performance to post 12 points, 11 rebounds and five steals. Kianna Smith scored 10 of her 12 points in the first half, and Olivia Cochran added 11 on 5-of-8 shooting.

Truong led Gonzaga with 14 points, but the junior was just 1 of 5 in the second half. Melody Kempton added 13.

HOME COOKING

With the win, Louisville finished the season with a 16-0 record at the Yum Center. Dating back to last season, the Cardinals have won a record 18 straight.

But the road to what would be the program's first national title will go through Wichita, Kansas, where Louisville will play the winner of Monday night's second-round game of Belmont at Tennessee.

year. Maddie averaged 12.6 points, 2.7 assists and 3.7 steals per game. They are the 13th and 14th Lady Pacers to earn the honor.

Lynch and Cahall are the 16th and 17th Lady Cubs to be picked for the First Team. Lynch, the school's career leader in assists, averaged 9.7 points per game and led the area at 5.5 assists per game while Cahall checked in a 13.0 points and 5.7 rebounds per game. Lynch was a second-team selection in 2020.

Edmondson, last year's Freshman of the Year, averaged 13.2 points and 4.6 rebounds per game for the Raiders this season. She was also a Second Team selection last year and is the 13th Trimble player to be named to the First Team.

Joining Knoebel on the Second Team is Madison's Casey Dyer, Southwestern's Ashley Fulton, and Carroll County's Kaitlyn Hensley and Courtney Strickland.

Jessie Duvall was the scoring champion, averaging 13.7 ppg and edging Edmondson (13.2 ppg) and Cahall (13.0). Duvall also led the area in steals at 4.3. Carroll County's Reagan Matthews led the area in rebounding at 8.0.

was close (to 1,000 points) and it could go either way, you didn't see her out there just trying to push and score for herself. She was always thinking like, how are we going to win this game? And if it happens, it happens. If you're selfless then individual accomplishments are going to happen."

Despite her successes on the basketball court, the sectional championship game was likely Duvall's last on the basketball court. As even better softball players, Jessie and Maddie have both earned scholarships at Huntington University where they will play softball next year.

Jessie said she is going to miss the basketball court but she can't wait to hit the softball diamond next week and help lead the Pacers back to the sectional championship.

"I'm expecting it to be a really fun year. We lost a few players but I think we have key players to step up this year," Jessie said. "I just feel like it'll be a good year and hopefully we'll win a sectional at the end of it."

CARROLL

Cox, a junior, cleared the bar at 12 feet, 6 inches and placed second on a tiebreaker. He was also 25th in the 60-meter dash in 7.61.

Madison's 3200 relay team placed 13th in 9:48.78, the distance relay was 14th in 12:39.83, the 800 relay was 16th in 1:46.57, Neel Mistry was 32nd in the 3200 run in 12:07.87, and Eli Dodge was 37th in the 60 dash in 7.94.

Madison makes its outdoor track debut on Thursday, April 7 when it hosts Southwestern and South Ripley.

Brissett leads Pacers past Trail Blazers 129-98

BY MARK AMBROGI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Oshae Brissett scored 24 points, Justin Anderson had 18 and the Indiana Pacers cruised past the Portland Trail Blazers 129-98 Sunday.

Brissett sank 8 of 10 shots and all six free throws, and he led Indiana with nine rebounds. "I'm still learning and continuing to build," Brissett said. "I'm thankful for the opportunity I'm getting right now and trying to capitalize on it. I'm trying not force anything and being my best self."

Terry Taylor and Jalen Smith each scored 17 points for the Pacers, who never trailed. Lance Stephenson had 11 assists. "Our guys jumped into the game," Pacers coach Rick Carlisle said. "We did what we need to do, which was to execute and be unselfish. We did some good things defensively, held them under 100."

The Trail Blazers have lost 10 of 11, including four in a row. Josh Hart led them with 26 points, hitting 11 of 13 shots. Trendon Watford scored 17 points, Drew Eubanks had 12, and Kris Dunn and Ben McLemore each had 11.

Hart scored 14 points in the third quarter as Portland held a 34-25 lead to close the deficit to 94-82. However, the Pacers were able to expand their lead in fourth with a 35-16 advantage.

The Pacers led by 25 in the first half before settling for a 69-48 halftime lead.

Indiana grabbed a 16-4 lead as the Trail Blazers hit only one of their first nine shots. "We got off to a slow start with turnovers and missed shots," Watford said. "We were pretty much playing catch up from there. We would start to make a little run and we'd look up and we're still down 17."

TIP-INS

Trail Blazers: Justise Winslow was sidelined with soreness in his right Achilles tendon. ... Watford scored in double figures for the eighth straight game. Watford, a rookie from LSU, also had eight rebounds and three assists.

Pacers: Malcolm Brogdon sat out for rest, Pacers coach Rick Carlisle said. ... Chris Duarte missed his second consecutive game with a sore left big toe. ... With Brogdon and Duarte out, Anderson got the start after signing a 10-day contract Thursday.

ROAD WOES

The Trail Blazers have played eight of their last nine games on the road. "I feel like I got hit by a truck," Hart said. "It's definitely rough with time zones and time changes."

Hart said that shouldn't be an excuse, especially with all the young players on the team. The Trail Blazers play at Detroit on Monday night before returning home.

HIGHLIGHT REEL

Near the end of the first half, Stephenson hit Brissett with a behind-the-back pass, and Brissett went up for a reverse dunk.

"It was spectacular," Carlisle said. "We see Lance make similar type plays like that before. He put a little extra mustard on it with the look off into the crowd. It's one of the most unselfish and best plays of the season, and it'll be a highlight."

Brissett got fouled and hit the free throw to complete "I got out in transition and you got to get the crowd into it," Brissett said. "Lance made a great pass and I just had to do something to show out."

Stephenson said he heard everybody yelling but didn't see Brissett's dunk until he saw the replay.

"That was insane," he said.
